

Q1. Please select one item that describes the significance China's economy will have for the future Japanese economy. (Select one only.)

Q2. Please select an item that describes the meaning China as a production base will have for the Japanese economy in the future. (Select one only.)

Q3. Do you think that Japan's industry (manufacturing industry) can remain competitive with Chinese industry (manufacturing industry)?

Please select one item from the below that best describes what you expect to see 10 years from now.

(Select one only.)

Q4. How do you expect the Chinese economy to perform over the next 10 years?
Please select the item that best describes what you think is most likely. (Select one only.)

Q6. Please select the item that describes what you see as the greatest risk of doing business in China.
(Select one only.)

Q6SQ1. If you selected "political risk" above, then which of the following political risks do you think requires most caution? (Select one only.)

Q8. What change do you expect in the Communist Party's one-party regime in the Xi Jinping administration?
Please select the item you think corresponds to the greatest likelihood. (Select one only.)

Q9. If China were to democratize, when do you think it would happen?
Please select the item you think corresponds to the greatest likelihood. (Select one only.)

Q10. Do you think China will in future become a country that respects the international order of diplomacy and economics and follows the rules?

Please select the item you think corresponds to the greatest likelihood. (Select one only.)

Q11. If your company were to invest in an emerging economy, which of the following countries/regions would seem most promising? (Select one only.)

Q12. Select a policy that would be good in terms of possession of the Senkaku Islands. (Select one only.)

Q13. Please select the response that you think the Japanese government should make to China regarding the Senkaku Islands problem.(Select one only.)

Q14. If the deterioration in Japan-China relations over the Senkaku Islands problem persists over the long term, how do you think Japanese enterprises should pursue business with China? (Select one only.)

Q16. How do you see the China threat and where do you place Japan's defense capabilities?
(Select one only.)

Q18. Please select a statement that matches your view regarding Cabinet members who go to Yasukuni Shrine to pay their respects. (Select one only.)

